. . . [...]. [...] I sent you by allen Bell a hogs^d of spruce and a Barrel of Roots and none by Blinn another Barrel of Roots and Share of my Clarrett which I take to be the best ever drunk in these parts _ it is in the Barrel which had the Lisbon Wine and in which I brought my Madeira_I tell Mr Jekyl of it and I hope the other Custom ~~house~~ Officers will not diminish themselves so much as to seize so small a triple, if they should you must buy it again but I cannot think there is any danger, You must let it settle at least a fortnight and then dran it off in good clean bottles and cork it well _ you must ask Mr Botineau to drink a bottle of it with you for I tell him on't,
