Extract of a Letter to the Honble
And[rew] Strange Esq.
Chief Justice of Nova Scotia - respecting a disease knee
of a Girl aged Years. The daughter of M^{rs}. Bailey his house keeper.

Nothing is so difficult as to give any advice about a disease at such a distance of time after the account was given, and when it will be so long before the remedy mentioned can be made use of.

The child is most probably scrophulus, the knee is merely a symptom of the state of the constitution, and the chirurgical treatment must depend upon the judgement of an experienced surgeon according to the state of that the swelling is in. Fomenting with warm sea water, and applying poultices of warm seawater

-hulus swellings

and bread or Rye meal and lard useful are in almost all scrophulous swellings. ~ Blisters round the knee are sometimes useful, and a plaster made of Gum Ammoniac softened with vinegar of Squilles. But the grand matter is rectify the child's constitution, and that will be best done by constant sea bathing and by taking at least once or twice a week so much of the sea water inwardly as to purge gently. at the same time the child may take inwardly decoctions of Bark, and the root of Mezerion: the former especially if the child be weak, pale & relaxed. If she has any scroph-
-ulous glands about her neck, armpits or elsewhere, she ought to take powders of the burnt sponge, or vegetables ethiops, with a small proportion of Sal: polychrest. all these things must be regulated by the judgement of the medical Gentlemen on the spot. These are the most effectual remedies to which may be added sea [weede] applied to the knee or rather that kind of slime which is found in the pods, may be often rubbed on the swelling
