Extract from Capt. Ball's Letter.

“A greater proportion of Officers both in the army and navy have died than privates, or sailors, which I ascribe to their eating too much putrescent food. The Physician General told me last week that this fever had baffled the skill of all the faculty, both English and French; but a master of transport had found out a medicine in the Essence of Spruce which had cured a great many people. It has succeeded with all men lately attacked: and it is equally well spoken of in the other ships. We only began trying it for three days before we failed. The proportion is three table spoonfulls of Essence to a quart of warm water; When cool it maybe taken in small tumblers, one every half hour or an hours interval; less may do for a weak constitution. Three tumblers have proved a cure. It some times acts as purgative, with some people it has not any sensible effect but the symptoms gradually going away. I had caught the fever, and of taking three tumblers of this medicine the symptoms went away without any sensible operation.”

I have frequently felt the putrid Effluvium in my throat, which causes this melancholy fever soon after I inhaled it, which got of by washing my mouth, and drinking plentifully of light liquors. It has the taste of Tobacco

Extract of a letter from Mr. M. Bean, Purser of His Majesty's Ship Argonaut.

“Emetics and bleeding have been in general unsuccessful. The former weakens the stomach so much that it refuses to retain any thing afterwards, and bleeding rather accelerates the progress of the disease. We have lately found that the Essence of spruce has been efficacious and has relieved several in the course of four or five hours.

The mixture is three table spoonfulls of Essence dissolved in a quart bottle of hot water, and taken cold about a tumbler full every hour till three tumblers have been taken, keeping the patient in open air and walking if he is able; but when the fever is entirely gone off the patient may go below. When the spruce begins to purge which it general does more or less, the taking should be discontinued.
