Lord Noell's Leaden Plaster--

Take Red Lead & white lead, of each one pound, Venice Soap 12 oz: sallad oyl, 2 1/2 Pints; searce the leads and shave the soap fine; put the soap and oyl into a well glazed Pott, and incorporate the oyl and soap very well together. put in your leads gradually, and sett over a slow fire, stirring the mixture continually with an Iron spoon or spatula, and take heed that it run not over at the first boiling, Let the whole boyl softly for an hour & a half, and when the colour begins to turn into a pale brown, you may quicken the fire, and drop a little of the composition upon a plate or slip of wood, and if it will slide before your nail, then it is boiled enough & you must remove it from the fire, and gradually stir in one quarter of an ounce of Mastich finely powdered, continuing gently to stir the whole together till it begins to grow cold; and, when it is cool enough, roll it up, first smearing your hands with a little sweet oyl ~

Annotations

Mastich

Mastic is "An aromatic gum or resin which exudes from the bark of the lentisk or mastic tree" (OED).
