Description

This two part document is Accession 2664, no. 42, pages 1-6. The directions, page 1-2, are in a different hand than the letter. This appears to be because the directions are a copy of the original; the text suggests both are by John Marshall. Miss McDonald might be Helen (Nelly) McDonald. A letter from John MacDonald to his sister Nelly, dated 12 September 1789, makes similar suggestions (see "Remedy for Stomach Ailment" by John MacDonald, Acc. 2664, no. 16, p. 10).

All uses of this image other than research or private study require written permission from the Public Archives and Records Office of Prince Edward Island.

Directions for Miss McDonald.

1. Coolness, quietness and rest seem to be absolutely necessary at present.

2. Your diet should be cooling and slender: sage, salep, Barley or rice boiled, with milk: gruel, Panada, weak broths, ripe or prepared fruits are proper. --

3. Your drinks ought to be mild, subacid and opening: Whey, Buttermilk

Barley or Tamarind Watter, milk and Watter c. & are well adapted.-- it is to be observ'd that they are all to be drunk cold and rather in small quantities at a time; these and drinks of a similar kind may be acidulated.

4. A few Medicines may be necessary, for which reason for which reason two or three that experience has pointed out as the most effectual in such cases are sent.

If the spiting of blood be not now very considerably lessend it will be neces sary to take fifteen or twenty drops of the Elixir of Vitriol in a glass of watter twice or thrice a day.

If you are not warm or feverish, yet at the same time pass restless Nights, after bathing your legs in a deep bucketful of luke warm watter for half an hour it will be necessary to take about twenty, or twenty five drops of Laudanum going to bed, in a cupfull of any of your common drinks.

The Laudanum may be occasionally repeated with or without the bathing.

Of the bark as much as will lift upon a shilling may be taken three or four times a day in a little new milk.

Your bed room ought to be cool large and airy the bed curtains should never be drawn close, A Matress is preferable to a Feather bed, you should sleep likewise with your head considerably raised.

If ever you should be come hot and feverish, and your breathing considerably affected it will then be necessary to lose a little blood from the arm if your strength can possibly admit of it.

Upon the whole till such time as your complaints have for a considerable time left you your diet ought to be compos'd almost entirely of milk and vegetables, and you will then be pleas'd to return to your former method of living by degrees, and all violent exertions must be carefully avoided, in the mean time grief must not be indulg'd but a change of ideas attentively courted. amusements where theres little or no exertion required are the most suitable &c. &c.

At this distance it is probable some circumstances may have escaped us. The gen^l scope of the treatments however being pointed out Miss McDonalds goods sense will easily supply All wants

That she may be speedily restored to her former state of health is the most sincere wish of Halifax 16th July. 1782.

(copy).

Madam,

May I hope you will do me the justice to believe, that it was with real concern I heard of your relapse.

You must not however [] young to despond. Perhaps, without much difficulty you can assign a sufficient cause.

As the same ground now must nearly be again travelled over, I have therefore put you almost the same Medicines as before.

The Elixir of Vitriol you will be pleased to use as formerly directed.

As the Nitre, you may take about a quarter of an ounce in a day in any of your ordinary drinks.

A tea cupful of the Tincture of Red Roses may be taken two or three times a day.

The Tincture is made by infusing in a stoneware vesel for four or five hours, an ounce of the dried leaves of Red Roses, with fifty or sixty drops of the Elixir of Vitriol, in two pints of boiling water. Afterwards the Tincture is to be strained, and sweetened with sugar.

I am sorry I could not at present

send you more of the leaves.

Cold air, Acids, and Aliments of the laxative and less nutritious kind must always be duly attended to. -- If hot and feverish, bleeding will no doubt be advisable.

The patient must be regulated, and any violent exertion must be carefully shunned. By way of exercise, sleighing may be tried.

The inferior extremities must be kept comfortably warm by additional cloutting
of the woolen kind.--

Close stoves are dangerous, --Open fire places are much safer.

I have already had the honour
to write you so very fully on this subject, that the preceding is intended

merely as a kind of recapitulation

[] at a loss, I must therefore beg leave, to refer you to my former letter. -- By attention and perseverance,

I make no doubt, but that you will not only recover health, but likewise confirm it.

If however, at any time, you may think I can be of further use

I beg you will freely command,

Dear Madame,

your most faithful

humble servant,

John Marshall

Halifax, 23rd Nov. 1782.

May I hope you will do

me the honour to present my best respects

to Mrs Calbeck.
